Good Housekeeping. The summer school movement in our city made a beginning last season by allowing the children to play in one of the schoolyards, to have a sand pile, an instructor in nature work and a teacher in manual training. times Put on Shipboard. Benjamin Brooks, in Scribner's, Nobody who has been to sea can imagine all the things that can happen to a ship's machinery nor properly estimate the cleverness and ingenuity used up in repairs. The youth who leaves his shop full of wonderful and costly machines has another complete education waiting for him at sea in the wonderful things that can be accomplished in time with a plain, ordinary hammer and chisel, a rather worn-out file, and a great deal of ingenuity. I should like to have been aboard the steamer disabled in fith Dean, of Marion, and Dr. J. H. Dean | the Red sea, where they took a boat davit, straightened it out in a rivet forge, made relatives here last Monday ... Miss Ethel a new boiler feed-pump piston-rod out of McCulloch is home from Albany, N. Y., it, and went on again-or, better still, on the ship that lost a propeller and the end of her Grace Alexander and Miss Ethel Wickel tail-shaft off the west coast of Africa-to replace which they were obliged to move her cargo, pump her forward compartments full to sink her bow and raise her stern out of water, drag the broken shaft, several tons in weight, out through the long alley (too low and cramped to stand up in), plug up the hole behind it, drag in the spare shaft and couple it up, and lower the new propeller down over the stern-all while she kicked and wallowed in a heavy seaand finally had to lower the chief engineer over after the propeller, where he sat tied to a flimsy staging making all fast and secure while the vessel jounced him up and down in the sea till he bled at the pose and ears, and the crew kept the sharks at bay with pistols and boat-hooks to prevent them from eating him up before he finished the job. That was a seventy-two hours in which the young and aspiring engineer might learn a host of valuable and interesting things.
